

Left Coast Crime 2025

Denver, Colorado

March 13–16, 2025

Westin Denver Downtown

Rocky Mountain High Jinks Name Tag

Please wear your convention name badge at all times during the entire convention. It is your ticket into all LCC panels, interviews, and other events such as the Welcome Reception, breakfasts, and the Lefty Awards Banquet. Wearing your name tag also helps us all get to know each other.

New to Left Coast Crime? Stop by the Volunteer Table and volunteer! It's a great way to make new friends while helping our all-volunteer-run convention.

LCC Panels

Come to the Left Coast Crime 101 panel on Thursday for more tips about enjoying the convention from experienced LCC attendees, and Talk to Us About LCC on Sunday morning to share your ideas about Left Coast Crime conventions.

Don't be shy! Introduce yourself to those sitting next to you at a panel, standing in line to get a book signed, browsing in the Book Room, or relaxing and chatting in the Hospitality Room. Share your passion for the mystery/thriller genre!

Have questions or need help during the convention?

Visit the Registration Table or the Left Coast Crime table and talk to us!

Welcome to Rocky Mountain High Jinks! Left Coast Crime #35 in Denver, Colorado

We hope you have a wonderful time at the convention, and also exploring outside the hotel. The mile-long pedestrian-friendly (please excuse construction) 16th Street Mall is right outside the hotel. Historic Larimer Square, a picturesque city block of restaurants and shops, is only a couple of blocks away. The wonderfully preserved Union Station is a short walk northish. Near the station is the Museum of Contemporary Art, and not far away the Confluence of the South Platte River and Cherry Creek, which is why Denver popped up here. The State Capitol building and Denver Public Library are at the other end of 16th Street. There's a Money Museum at the Federal Reserve Bank and the Denver Mint happens to be here. And the Denver Art Museum, a Police Museum, and a Firefighters Museum. Whew!

For those of you coming from anywhere near sea level, remember this is the Mile-High City, and oxygen is in shorter supply than you are used to. Walking and talking at the same time can be a challenge until you acclimatize, especially when climbing a flight of stairs or hill. If you feel short of breath, and/or get a headache, sit down and rest and read a book. There should be plenty of those around! Drink plenty of water and take care when drinking alcohol, which makes it harder to adjust to the altitude.

Putting on an all-volunteer convention is a challenging task and there are many people working behind the scenes. We can't survive without these Left Coast Crime regulars who step forward every year to make the convention a success: Mike Befeler (Meet-the-New Author Breakfast), Les & Leslie Blatt (Speed-Dating), Dotty Morefield (Registration), Baird Nuckolls (Author-Hosted Tables), Darrell Hoemann (Photography), Kathryn Rybka (Lefty Awards Banquet), Valerie Feldman (Quilt).

We especially want to thank a valiant group of locals who have been working with us, for what probably seems an eternity to them: Mary Birk, Becky Clark, Ann Dominguez, Galit Gottlieb, Holly Harris, Lori Roberts Herbst, Sue Hinton, Linda Joffe Hull, Cynthia Kuhn, Sandra Murphy, Celeste Porter, Lisa Brown Roberts, Cynthia Swanson, Kirsten Weiss. You will see their friendly faces at the Silent Auction, Volunteer Table, Author Signings, and the Colorado Mystery Merge Carnival Extravaganza on Friday evening.

Please give them a thank-you as well as the other volunteers helping throughout the convention. We need you all, so please stop by and let us know how you'd like to be involved in our upcoming convention in San Francisco (which also has a Mint)!

Outside Phoenix, two gangs rule . . .
...and one police officer is caught in the middle—Hector Miguel Navarro.

In a world of human trafficking, drugs, and violence, two people's lives are about to be intertwined in a way where only one can survive.

“The arduous and dangerous tasks of law enforcement dealing with violent gangs makes for a great story.”

★★★★★ Amazon review

“This book takes you into a world that you can see,
smell, and taste.
Very compelling reading.”

★★★★★ Amazon review

Also available

ROBBERS AND COPS

“A brilliant police procedural covering four decades of criminal behavior and the cops who ended it.”

—Alec Peche, author of Jill Quint MD, Forensic
Pathologist series

THE MONA LISA SISTERS

Lura Grisham Myer lives a perfect life until her world is ripped apart. Reborn, forged of pain and misery,
she battles to recapture
happiness with the help of two orphans and a mysterious stranger.

Both convention breakfast buffets will be on a first-come, first-served basis. If you like getting up for events that start at 7:15 AM, join us for breakfast in Platte River (on Mezzanine Level). If you've stayed up too late the night before, feel free to sleep in. On Friday morning, Mike Befeler will host the famous and long-running Meet the New Authors Breakfast, sponsored by Sisters in Crime.

You'll need your banquet ticket for the Lefty Awards Banquet on Saturday night. Banquet tickets showing your entrée choice were included in your registration envelope – unless you told us you weren't coming. The ticket fits in the pocket of your nametag holder, so don't lose it! You'll need to show your ticket at the door to the Confluence Ballroom. Have your ticket handy so that everyone can enter with as little fuss and feathers as possible. If you bought an Extra Banquet Ticket for your companion, that ticket was included in your registration envelope and will be needed for your companion's admission.

Left Coast Crime Conduct Policy

Left Coast Crime is a fan convention, dedicated to creating a friendly, welcoming, and inclusive atmosphere in which all members of the community can celebrate their love of books. We are dedicated to the safety, security, and enjoyment of all attendees, and as such, the convention should be free of discrimination or harassment based upon an individual's sex, race, ethnicity, national origin, age, religion, or any other legally protected characteristics. All attendees are expected to abide by this policy.

Harassment is behavior that alarms or threatens, or is unwelcome or offensive to the person it is directed at. Examples of harassing behavior include unwanted physical contact, comments or foul language of an offensive or sexual nature, sexual propositions, sexual jokes or remarks, obscene gestures, and displays of pornographic or sexually explicit pictures, drawings, or caricatures, intimidation, stalking, following, harassing photography or recording, and false accusation of harassment.

Any attendee asked to stop harassing behavior is expected to comply immediately. If you feel that you or another attendee has been harassed or discriminated against on the basis of sex, race, national origin, ethnic background, or any other legally protected characteristic, you should, if you are comfortable doing so, explain the behavior to a member of the Left Coast Crime committee, a member of the hotel staff, or both. All complaints of unlawful harassment will be handled in as discreet and confidential a manner as is possible under the circumstances. If no Left Coast Crime committee member is available, or if you feel it would be dangerous (such as in the case of an immediate physical threat) to inform such person, you should immediately contact the police.

SIGNS OF OBSESSION

A NOVEL

A.F. WHITEHOUSE

Guest of Honor: Sara Paretsky

by SJ Rozan

When I was asked to write this essay my first reaction was, “What an honor! But how can I do justice to Sara Paretsky?” My second reaction was, “How can I not be redundant? Who would come to a mystery conference who doesn’t already know all about Sara Paretsky?”

Oh, maybe not the details: the number of books she’s written (24 novels, plus various short story collections, non-fiction books, and books of essays); the awards (too many to list them all, but some stand out: Ms. Magazine’s 1987 Woman of the Year award, The Cartier Diamond Dagger for Lifetime Achievement from the British Crime Writers Association, the Anthony Award for Lifetime Achievement given at Bouchercon, the Mystery Writers of America Grandmaster Award); the biographical stuff (born in Iowa, raised in Kansas, since then in Chicago, a Midwesterner through and through); her close to 50-year marriage to Dr. Courtney Wright. But who Sara Paretsky is – surely everyone knows that, right? The woman is a goddess! (Actually she is a Goddess – all Past Presidents of Sisters in Crime carry that title, for life.)

But there’s more to who Sara is than that. Every now and then the right person comes along at the right time and things change. Sara was that person, the 80’s was that time, and what changed was the world of crime writing.

In 1987 I wasn’t even a beginner writer. I was a maybesomeday-I’ll-try-to-be-a writer. I was a big reader, though, and if I did ever write I knew what I wanted to write was crime. So I was a member of MWA and I’d been going to the Edgars for a couple of years, sitting at a table way in the corner and gaping at giants. That year, during Edgar week, a meeting was held of women writers and readers interested in forming an organization to help put women writers on an equal footing with men, in terms of reviews, awards, advances, and generally being taken seriously. I heard about the meeting and, as a leftist, feminist, and general troublemaker, I went. As it turned out, that was the founding meeting of Sisters in Crime. Sara, of course, was there, as she had been at the Bouchercon in 1986 when the first such meeting was held – convened by her. She became the first SinC President, and steered the organization until its bylaws were written and adopted and the whole thing formalized at the Bouchercon the next year.

At that point I already knew who Sara was, of course. I’d read Indemnity Only when it came out, and then Deadlock, and Killing Orders. VI Warshawski was my kinda gal – tough, fearless, self-sufficient, but not a loner; a dog lover, an athlete, a musician, a great and loyal friend. A woman, rare in crime fiction in those days, who had sex and didn’t die. In my mind she fit right into the PI pantheon. Except she was a woman; but to me that wasn’t a bug, it was a feature.

More than VI, though, what knocked me out in the cases Sara created for her was Sara’s loud, clear declaration that the individuals who’d committed the actual crimes were not the only criminals. The institutions above them were to blame, the shadowy, usually white-collar world where it was all about money, big money, and culpability could easily be shrugged off onto someone who was, yes, guilty – but not ultimately responsible.

Sara’s been praised, and rightly so, for her creation of VI, who became a role model for the female PIs who followed (and, not so coincidentally, also became the icebreaker steaming through the frozen-to-women seas of equity in crime publishing); for her relentless championing of women in the world of books; for her help and her friendships and her support of other women.

But I think what she’s done in the VI books is more than that.

The PI form has always been about a lone hero, a knight errant, getting posthumous justice for the little guy. That's its historical precedent and philosophical base. Those of us who love it, love it for that reason: we crave the idea that there's someone out there who can ride to the rescue, who can take our side against the forces arrayed against us. Even if they're too late to save us, they can get some kind of justice for us.

What Sara's done is to bring that abstract idea home to the cultural and the political. The reason the little guy needs posthumous justice is that real-life modern-day institutions have crushed him (or, of course, her). The system we live in creates the conditions for the individual to be devoured by it. Sara's work crystalizes the abstract clouds of injustice in the PI novel into the hard shards of established, systemic inequality.

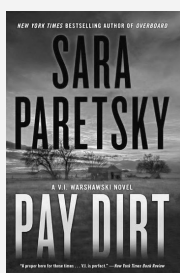

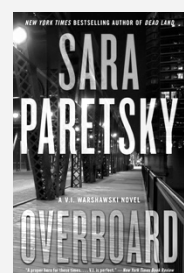

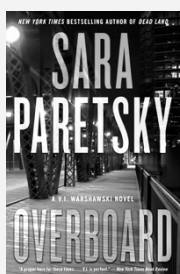

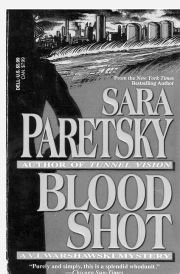

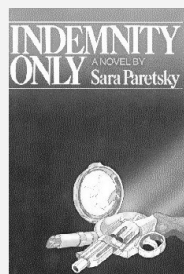

Lovers of PI novels have always sensed that this systemic inequality was the problem. Chandler, Hammett, both MacDonalds, almost said it. But not quite. It took a Midwestern dame who all her life has been on the side of the oppressed to say the quiet part out loud: people can be evil, but evil systems allow and even encourage them to operate. The people must be stopped but more critically, the systems must be changed.

To my mind, the most important of Sara's many vital contributions to the world of crime writing is acknowledging and insisting upon the role of institutional greed and wrongdoing in the crimes of individuals. Once you read her you can't unsee that. Chandler famously said of Hammett that he took murder out of the Venetian vase and dropped it into the alley. Sara Paretsky challenges us to lift our eyes from the corpse in the alley to the edifices along the avenue, and to consider what institutions there bear the real responsibility for the crime.

Thank you, Sara.

Guest of Honor: Manuel Ramos

by Nicolás Kanellos and Cristelia Pérez

Hands down, Manuel Ramos is the most renowned Latino mystery writer, one who has made his mark beyond ethnic designations and inspired followers from throughout the noir, hard-boiled detective, and legal thriller world – for his novels cut across these genres. The numerous edition and re-editions of what is now a ten-book series attest to the popularity and staying power of his creations.

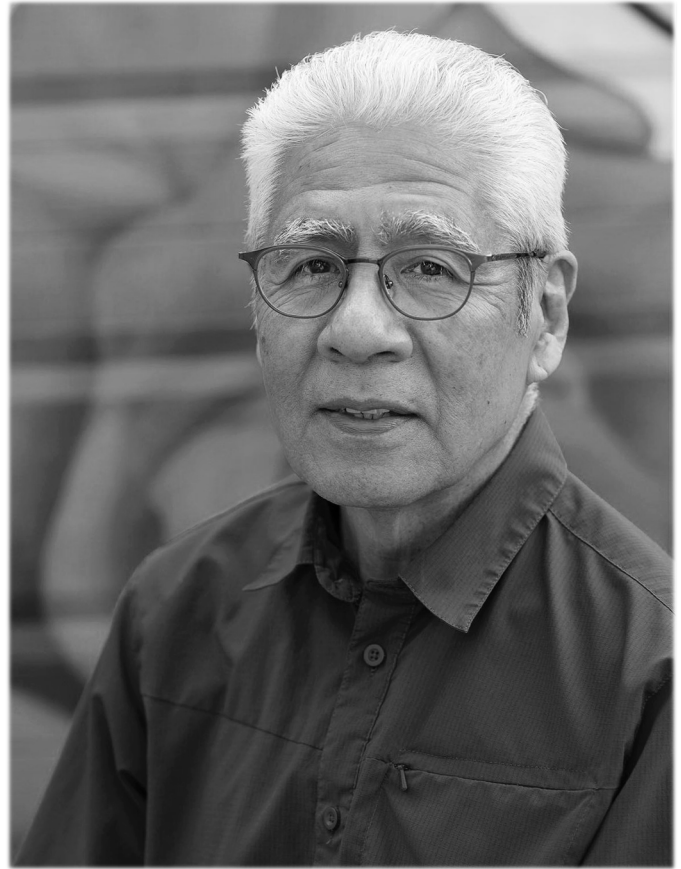

Born in Florence, Colorado, on March 6, 1948, Ramos bene-fited from a public education and went on to earn a bachelor's degree in Political Science from Colorado State University (1970) and a law degree from the University of Colorado (1973). Ramos has practiced law since then.

In the late 1980s, Ramos became more and more interested in literature, began reviewing books for the Denver media, and started writing. It was a natural for him to make the transition from his interest in the law to writing detective fiction; he also looked upon the medium as a way of understanding recent Chicano history and culture.

In 1993, Ramos published his first in the Luis Montez series of five books, The Ballad of Rocky Ruiz, in which the burned-out lawyer and middle-aged ex-Chicano civil rights activist Montez narrates his involvement in unraveling the mystery surrounding the murder of fellow activist Rocky Ruiz some twenty years earlier. In the next installment, The Ballad of Gato Guerrero, Montez is called upon to protect a deceased friend's family from a criminal gang. As in Rocky Ruiz, the setting is Denver and its Latino barrios, but here instead of the Chicano civil rights movement, the plot harkens back to the Vietnam War.

In The Last Client of Luis Montez (1996), Montez has to solve the murder of a legal client, which gives Ramos the excuse of review-ing and critiquing American life and culture in the 1990s. Despite the title of the former installment, Luis Montez lives on to continue detective work in Blues for the Buffalo (1997) as he searches for a Chicana writer, Rachel Espinoza, who has disappeared in Mexico; the plot takes a surprise turn for literary enthusiasts when her disappearance becomes linked to the real-life disappearance of Chicano writer Oscar Zeta Acosta in 1974. In Brown-on-Brown (2006), Montez gets involved in the Anglo-Hispanic conflict over water rights in the Colorado sand-dune country.

Ramos departed from the Montez mysteries in his Mooney's Road to Hell (2002), which now features private eye Danny Mora (Mooney) investigating the murder of an illegal immigrant in Denver; this allows Ramos to explore the whole underworld of labor smuggling, as well as revisit themes from the Chicano Movement.

Manuel Ramos' second series of Rocky Mountain noir books are tied to the first but now feature the antihero Gus Corral, who had worked for Luis Montez in the first series. More so than in the first series, the narrator tracks the gentrification of the Mexican American barrio and ties the mysteries into current socio-political themes.

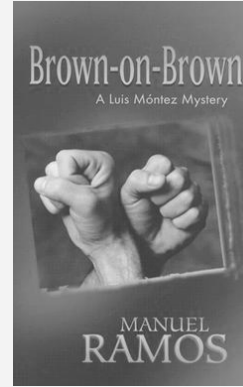

Among the awards garnered by Ramos are the University of California Irvine Chicano/Latino Prize (1991), a nomination for the Edgar Allen Poe Award given by the Mystery Writers of America (1993) and a Colorado Book Award (1994). Soon after the Luis Montez series went out of print at St. Martin's Press, Ramos was fortunate to have Northwestern University Press re-issue the four first volumes in the series, while the University of New Mexico Press has been issuing Ramos' newer works.

Toastmaster: John Copenhaver

by Greg Herren

The first time I met John Copenhaver was on a diversity panel at Bouchercon in Toronto. He was new (not just to me but to the audience as well), his debut novel available only in ARC form, and as I listened to him talk – about writing, about being a queer writer, about what he was doing with his work – I became more and more interested in his writing. I read his incredible debut novel Dodging and Burning, and loved it so much I wished I could steal it and claim it as my own work.

The novel was smart, and beautifully written with gorgeous sentences exposing the hard truths about the scourge of this country's homophobic past. I added him to my list of "must-read" writers and he just gets better with each new book. He's won and been nominated for countless awards, including the Lefty, the Macavity, and the Lambda, his most recent was a New York Times Best of the Year selection, and he uses his remarkable talent to continue to explore and explain those dark times for queer people that he writes about – historical novels that are timeless, and just as fresh and current as anything set in the present day.

Since that first panel together, I've gotten to know John better as a person as well as a writer, and just get more impressed the more I learn. John not only is a talented crime writer, but he's a good person – the two don't always go together – and he cares about the community. He works with the Queer Crime Writers, has served on the Mystery Writers of America board of directors, and is always working to help raise the visibility of other queer writers.

I always feel smarter after talking to him or reading one of his books.

John is also a teacher, sharing with his lucky students his deep love of fiction and writing, and his passion for books. Ask him about Patricia Highsmith sometime, and settle in for an intellection discussion of her work—breaking down imagery and symbolism and themes, queer coding in her work, and the themes of loneliness, brokenness, and the damage people do to each other—whether intentional or not. I could talk to John for hours about writing and books, and never be bored or lose interest.

Future generations will mark John as not only one of the best queer writers of our time, but one of the best writers, period.

I am very proud to call him a friend as well as a colleague.

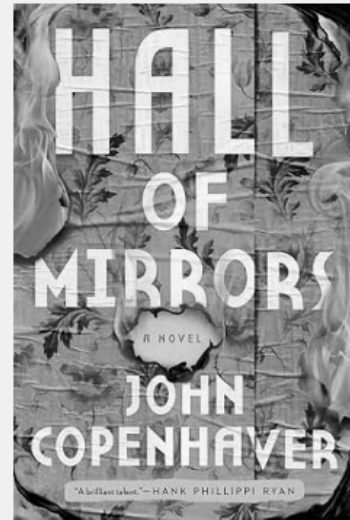

And well done, Left Coast Crime, for selecting him as toastmaster. He is an excellent choice.

Fan Guest of Honor: Grace Koshida

by Janet Rudolph

Some people have destination weddings; mystery fans have destination conventions. Grace Koshida, Fan Guest of Honor, goes beyond choosing a few restaurants, independent bookstores, and a couple of museums and galleries to accompany her Left Coast Crime experience. If you follow her on social media, you'll know she arrives at conventions early and leaves late spending time in the location. She knows the best places to stay before and after, the best restaurants, the most unique attractions, and terrific indie bookstores. Grace is an intrepid traveler, as well as the ultimate fan – of mysteries, locations, cultures, food, and so much more.

Just like her fondness for exotic and different cuisines and cultures, Grace approaches her reading in the same way. She's an eclectic reader. She likes cozy and comfortable crime novels, but also darker mysteries from all over the globe. And does Grace keep her opinion of books to herself? Nope. She has posted over 700 reviews online since she retired from a 27-year career with the Canadian Federal Government in 2016. She credits this to having more time to read. Her reviews can be found on NetGalley, Edelweiss, and Booksirens. She's also a vocal and visible mystery advocate on social media – she likes to spread the word about new authors!

But what about Conventions in Real Life? Denver is her 19th LCC! Tucson LCC in 2000 was her first. She says it's been a fun ride since then, going to LCCs in diverse locations such as Monterey, El Paso, Seattle, Denver, Kona, Los Angeles, Santa Fe, Monterey (again), Portland, Phoenix, Honolulu, Reno, Vancouver, San Diego, Albuquerque, and Bellevue. And, she keeps connected with authors and fans she meets at LCC through Facebook and other conventions.

Since there aren't many in-person bookstore events in Ottawa post-COVID, she attends 2-3 conventions a year. And talk about an amazing fan! Grace attends lots of Virtual book talks. She says she cut back post-COVID but she STILL watches several hundred events each year. By her own admission, she probably watches 12-15 book talks each month, which include First Chapter Fun with Hannah Mary McKinnon and Hank Phillippi Ryan, The Back Room, Poisoned Pen bookstore events, Rogue Women Writers' bimonthly event, Crime Time interviews with Hank Phillippi Ryan, and occasional podcasts. She listens to Authors on the Air with Pam Stack, now hosted by James L'Etoile; Twisted Passages with Marie Sutro; and Crime Wave with Bonnar Spring every week. And this is probably the tip of the iceberg!

But back to Grace herself. Grace describes herself as an introvert who can be gregarious with a small group of people. Yep, I can attest to that. Add to that, she is an avid walker. She's a member of the Capital City Walkers meetup group in Ottawa. They walk all year round, including during the long cold, snowy & icy Ottawa winters! Brrr...

One time when Grace was visiting San Francisco, we met at the Ferry Building on a Thursday, a market day. Grace knew which sandwich vendors were unique and fabulous, as well as which trucks and vendors had the best desserts! From there I joined her on a trek (for me), a gentle walk for her, to far-flung places in the City. She knew more venues and quirky places than I did, and how to get there, and I like to think of myself as a San Francisco aficionado. What an absolute treat! Spending time with Grace is to be treasured.

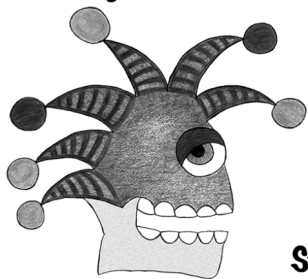

I mentioned that Grace likes food and food mysteries – and that reminds me that Grace in addition to ethnic foods, really likes CHOCOLATE. Who doesn't? Although she lives in Ottawa, several years ago I bumped into her at the San Francisco Chocolate Salon –what a surprise! Tasting chocolate together was such fun!

Writers and fans all love Grace, but she does have one enemy: Satan! Yes, this Canadian squirrel spends his time decimating the vegetables and herbs on her balcony. Follow Grace on social media to see how she tries to foil her nemesis. Satan the Squirrel makes getting an abundant veggie harvest very challenging.

So my advice to fans and authors here at LCC is to spend time with Fan Guest of Honor Grace Koshida. I hope you get a chance to chat with her and get to know her better at this convention, but if you don't, she's on social media. Follow her travels, read her reviews, interact at on-line events, and bask in "Grace Koshida, Fan Extraordinaire."

Valerie Biel

My stories for preteens to adults include the award-winning Circle of Nine fantasy series (inspired by Ireland’s stone circles) and my debut mystery novel, Beyond the Cemetery Gate. I use my powers for good to help authors navigate the crazy publishing world! I’m a Blackbird Writers’ founding member and a member of SinC. When I’m not at my computer, I’m probably wrangling my garden, reading multiple books per week, or traveling the world. I live in Wisconsin on a (tiny) piece of my family’s century-old farm, despite my teenage vow to get the heck out of dodge!

Dan Birk

Dan Birk is the author of Confessions of a Dangerous Girl, a YA spy thriller about a psychopathic teenage assassin trying to become a better person. Dan taught high school English in Vienna, Austria, and Brooklyn, New York, before selling out to become a lawyer. He now lives in Chicago with his wife and a very loud hound dog. In addition to the sequel to Confessions, Dan is currently working on a YA historical fantasy set at the University of Paris in the thirteenth century that centers on – what else – a mystery.

Leslie Blatt

Leslie Blatt is a retired School Library Media Specialist from New Jersey. She was an avid reader from a young age and devoured all types of books, mainly Biographies and Mysteries. Her love of mysteries started with the Bobbsey Twins and Nancy Drew and it hasn’t stopped. During her 40 years being in schools, she worked with all grade levels. Mysteries were always a major section in her library and were used as a resource for inquiry/critical thinking teaching as well as just pleasure reading. It was a good thing she married another avid mystery reader, Les Blatt, because between the two of them, they could probably fill a large Mystery section of a Public Library!

Mary Alyce (M.A.) Blume

When Covid abruptly ended her career as a theatrical tour publicist, M.A. Blume turned her flirtation with mystery writing into a fully committed relationship. Her short stories have been published in Malice Domestic Mystery Most Diabolical and Black Cat Weekly, and her current WIP was both a Silver Falchion Top Pick and Hugh Holton Finalist (2024). She serves as Vice President of SinC-Chicagoland and is a member of MWA national and Midwest. A lifelong Chicagoan who loves her city, she enjoys a beautiful day on the lake as much as a deviously crafted locked room mystery.

Claire Booth

Claire Booth used to be a newspaper reporter, where she got to live all sorts of places and cover all sorts of crimes – the unusual, the sordid, the silly. She went from Nevada to Missouri to Washington, DC, South Florida, the Seattle region, and the Bay Area. Eventually, she decided it was time to leave newspapers. But she missed writing desperately (that sounds better than saying she missed crime), so she decided to start writing books. She is now the author of the acclaimed Sheriff Hank Worth mystery series, which is set in Branson, Missouri, and includes the Lefty-nominated Home Fires.

Craig Faustus Buck

Craig Faustus Buck's short story "Home Game," was recently selected by Otto Penzler and John Grisham for their anthology The Best Mystery Stories of the Year 2025. Craig was a journalist before he moved into nonfiction books, co-writing two New York Times #1 best-sellers—one pop-psychology, the other pop-gynecology. He transitioned into television writing-producing, where he toiled for too many decades to admit. Now he's writing what he most loves to read: crime fiction. His short stories have been nominated for many awards. Publishers Weekly called his debut novel, Go Down Hard, "a solid romp through territory that Raymond Chandler first put on the map." He is currently shopping his next novel, Go Down Screaming.

Tracee de Hahn

Tracee de Hahn received her B. Architecture and MA in history from the University of Kentucky. She practiced architecture before moving to Paris (which felt like the right choice) and upon return to the US ran a non-profit for planning and preservation. After another stint in Europe – this time in Venice and Lausanne subconsciously researching a book – she and her husband moved to California where she was assistant vice president of Alumni Relations at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. Finally (big sigh) she turned to writing full time, and her mysteries set in Switzerland were published by Minotaur Books. She currently lives in Virginia and serves as president of Sisters in Crime, a community of writers everyone should join!

Catherine Dilts

Catherine Dilts was inspired to write a murder mystery after being tormented by a dreadful co-worker. She took out her homicidal frustration in a fictional format, resulting in her first short story sale. Author of the Rose Creek and Rock Shop mystery series, and write-for-hire projects with Annie's Fiction, she also continues writing short fiction. Ten of her stories appear in Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine. After a career in environmental compliance for a global corporation, Catherine now gets to write full time. Most of her fiction has a cozy mystery flavor.

Donna J. Evans

On a drive to visit family in Colorado, Donna J. Evans brainstormed the concept for Hunter on the Sly, and protagonist Jean Branning was born. Like the author, Jean is a traditional, stay-at-home wife and mother with a big family, which is enduring upheaval following her husband's job loss. Since the author has nine children in real life, she thought it would be easy to manage writing only four kids into a book. However, she may have had recurrent thoughts of doing away with one or two of the fictional kids – not the real ones.

Maddee James

Maddee James is the owner of xuni.com, a small, dynamic website development company which has created, designed, and maintained author websites since the late 90s (close to 30 years!). Her son Riley joined her in 2018. Though xuni.com clients span across all genres, they specialize in customized WordPress sites for mystery and thriller writers. (Fun fact: they have close to 20 clients at this Left Coast Crime!) They also support author branding through print and online ads, social media design, custom newsletters and other promotional materials. While they are in the business of creating functional beauty, they are best known for their individualized attention to clients and details, along with amazing responsiveness.

Seeley James

When I was ten, I read Treasure Island and thought: When I make stuff up, I get in trouble, so I should be a writer. But life had a few twists. At 19, I adopted a 3-year-old girl, later met and married the love of my life, and had two children. When I'd made all the gold I could eat, I finally pursued my dream career: writing action-adventures. I'm now sixteen books deep and loving it.

Bruce Johnson

In over four decades of working in computer technology, Bruce published a dozen non-fiction books to help thousands of software developers build the websites people complain about. Then, in a surprising move, he pivoted to writing psychological thrillers. You know, because all authors are rich. "Deja Vu," his first short story, was published in the Invasive Species anthology in March 2024.

Claire M. Johnson

My first novel, Beat Until Stiff, was nominated for a nice award, didn't win, but them's the breaks. Second novel, Roux Morgue, received a starred review from Publishers Weekly. Go me! My latest effort is a three-book series titled Fog City Noir. Published by Level Best Books, this series is set in Prohibition-era San Francisco and features Maggie Laurent, who hates her typewriter so much that she'd rather risk her life on San Francisco's mean streets than return to being a secretary. Book No. 1 is titled: Fog City.

Ellen Kirschman

Ellen Kirschman writes the five-book Dot Meyerhoff mystery series. Too dedicated for her own good, police psychologist Dot takes orders from no one, including her chief, and persists in solving crimes when she should be counseling cops—often using methods that would cost Ellen, a real police psychologist, her license. Ellen lives in California with her husband, whose entire life she's plagiarized for Dot's love interest, Frank. She adores Zumba, dogs, cats, and ice cream. A member of Mystery Writers of America, Sisters in Crime, and The Public Safety Writers Association, you can sign up for her occasional newsletter at her website.

Lori Lacefield

Lori began her writing journey at the age of 14, making up stories about teens navigating the precarious world between childhood and adulthood. Those troubles seem tame compared to the entanglements of blackmail, murder, and misconduct her characters find themselves in now. Lori writes page-turning mystery thrillers including the FBI Local Profiler Series featuring Agent Frankie Johnson and the Women of Redemption Series featuring women who aren't perfect but perfectly kick ass when given a second chance. Lori is past president of the Rocky Mountain chapter of MWA and a member of Sisters in Crime. She loves coffee, books, music, yoga, Pilates, wine, travel, and most of all, dogs. She lives in Colorado with her pack.

Audrey Lee

Audrey Lee started writing fiction at the young age of eleven, when she and her best friend co-authored a masterpiece set in London with the members of Depeche Mode, Wham!, and Duran Duran. Unfortunately, these spiral notebooks have yet to find a publisher evolved enough to understand the genius buried within. As a result, The Mechanics of Memory is her first published work. Audrey holds two degrees from UC Berkeley (Go Bears!) and spent over two decades in public education. When she isn't writing, Audrey is compulsively organizing, drinking a dirty martini, and missing her son (who abandoned her to attend college). Audrey is a finalist for Best Debut in the 2025 Edgar and Lefty Awards.

Sara Paretsky

Sara Paretsky revolutionized the mystery world in 1982 when she introduced V.I. Warshawski in Indemnity Only. By creating a detective with the grit and smarts to take on the mean streets, Paretsky challenged a genre in which women historically were vamps or victims. V.I. struck a chord with readers and critics; Indemnity Only was followed by 20 more V.I. novels. Paretsky's work also opened doors for other writers. In 1986 she created Sisters in Crime, a worldwide organization to advocate for women crime writers, which earned her Ms. Magazine's 1987 Woman of the Year award. More accolades followed including Lifetime Achievements Awards from Private Eye Writers of America, MWA, and Crime Writers Association.

Pat Sellers

Pat Sellers is not a writer. Other than a brief attempt at writing a mystery set on the moon when she was in junior high (it was the Apollo years), she can't remember writing anything other than papers in college and letters home to her parents. She is, however, a reader. When others list hobbies like skiing or quilting, she always put “reading”. In her mid-20s, she discovered Sue Grafton and Sara Paretsky and her love of mysteries took off. Pat was raised in a suburb of San Francisco and graduated from San Diego State University with a degree in History. After a series of unremarkable jobs, she ended her working career with the best job ever – an elementary school librarian.

Laurie Sheehan

Laurie has been a member of Mystery Writers of America for 20 years, a journey that began with her in a flapper dress sipping cocktails in a cemetery. A trained archaeologist, she (of course) spends time navigating a labyrinth of intrigue working for the Department of Defense. In her spare time, she's making progress on her cozy mysteries, ably assisted by the cutest tubby kitty muse ever. When not plotting crimes, she can be found attending yacht rock dance parties with her husband (in the kitchen), reading, hiking, capturing images through a lens, getting dirt under her nails in the garden, or over-creaming her coffee.

Jay Shepherd

Jay Shepherd is a thriller writer and recovering lawyer from Boston. Law & Politics magazine once named him one of the "Top 100 Lawyers in New England." He promptly left the law before anyone could ask for a recount. Jay was an inveterate blogger, back when blogging was a thing. He now serves as vice chair of the Bouchercon National Board, and his stint as treasurer of the MWA's New England chapter led to fewer than expected indictments. Jay is the author of Firing at Will (Apress/Springer) and is currently writing a WWII thriller. He is a decent speller but a poor typist.

R Weir

Award-winning Author R Weir lives in the Mile-High City with his family, where the Rocky Mountain High isn’t always achieved with an herbal substance. His writing delves into genres with gritty investigators exploring mystery, crime, suspense, and thrills. Featuring former US Marshal Hunter Divine, a dire, determined man searching for salvation. While private eye Jarvis Mann is tough and snarky, with as many faults as virtues. And his newest series, featuring retired police officer Donnie Steel and his K-9 partner Kogel, features characters exhibiting traces of R Weir’s sense of humor, though he’s not as tough and fearless. Though no evil stands a chance against his written word!

Kirsten Weiss

Kirsten Weiss writes laugh-out-loud, page-turning mysteries, and now a Tarot guidebook that’s a work of experimental fiction. Her heroes and heroines aren’t perfect, but they’re smart, they struggle, and they succeed. Kirsten writes in a house high on a hill in the Colorado woods and occasionally ventures out for wine and chocolate. Or for a visit to the local pie shop. Kirsten is best known for her Wits’ End, Perfectly Proper Paranormal Museum, and Tea & Tarot cozy mystery books. So if you like funny, action-packed mysteries with complicated heroines, just turn the page...

C.M. Wendelboe

C.M. Wendelboe gave up penning short stories and a long career in law enforcement to write books. He immerses himself from traditional Old West novels to mysteries set during the Great Depression to contemporary mysteries set on Indian reservations and will answer any question on the writing business. Anytime. He can be seen wandering the hallways of Left Coast Crime or he can be reached at cmwendelboe@wyoming.com

C.B. Wilson

The award-winning author of the Barkview Mysteries series, C.B. Wilson, has a serious thing about dogs. So serious that she has turned that canine fascination into a nine-book cozy pet mystery series. Set in the dog-friendliest city in America, the Barkview Mysteries follow a cat person's journey to find the perfect dog. C.B.'s love of writing was spurred by an early childhood encounter with a Nancy Drew book where she precociously wrote what she felt was a better ending. After studying at the Gemology Institute of America, she developed a passion for researching lost, stolen and missing jewels which just happen to be found in the most unusual places.

Tony Wirt

Tony Wirt got his first taste of publication in first grade, when his essay on Airplane II: The Sequel appeared in the Lake Mills Elementary School's Creative Courier. He parlayed that success into a writing career that includes Amazon First Read Picks Just Stay Away and Pike Island, and the forthcoming Silent Creek. He's a graduate of the University of Iowa and spent nine years doing media relations in the Hawkeye Athletic Department. He's also been a sportswriter, movie ticket taker, and Dairy Queen ice cream slinger who can still do the little curly thing on top of a soft serve cone. Tony now lives in Minnesota with his family and loves everything about it except the Golden Gophers.

Kenneth Wishnia

Kenneth Wishnia's novels have been nominated for the Edgar, Anthony, and Macavity Awards, and have made "best of the year" lists at Booklist, Library Journal, the Jewish Press, and the Washington Post. His last novel, The Fifth Servant, won a literary award in Italy. So he's got to get translated into Italian to win an award? Get with it, America! Sheesh! Oh, yeah – his latest novel, From Sun to Sun, takes on the world of biblical noir. So there.

Sheri Lewis Wohl

Try to catch up to award-winning author, Sheri Lewis Wohl, when she's out running and you undoubtedly will because she's really really slow. When not working on completing half-marathons in all fifty states, the former human remains detection K9 handler is writing her stories filled with danger and the paranormal. Sheri, along with her trusty German shepherd, Deuce, makes her home in NE Washington State where there are plenty of mountains and forests. While she has yet to encounter a werewolf, vampire, or demon, she continues to keep a vigilant watch when the sun goes down and darkness falls.

A quiz from the 1996 Boulder Program Book...

Does anyone out there recognize this ancient relic?

Hard as it may be to believe this odd object was not uncovered by archaeologists digging in some ancient ruin.

It was actually discovered in the office of one of the writers attending Left Coast Crime.

The writer refused to explain its purpose. After consulting a local psychic, we determined that it was some kind of talisman or good luck charm.

If rubbed in the proper places, it empowers its master with certain powers which can lead to awards and steady royalties.

Can you guess who is lucky enough to own this marvelous machine?

Hint: he/she has no interest in surrendering ownership.

Left Coast Crime Awards — The Lefty

Since 2016, all Left Coast Crime Awards are designated as “Lefty” Awards. Once upon a time, the “Lefty” – first awarded in 1996 – described only the award given for the best humorous mystery. LCC Bylaws now provide that each annual convention will give Lefty Awards for best novel in four categories: Humorous, Historical (the Bruce Alexander Memorial first given in 2004, renamed in 2022 as the Bill Gottfried Memorial), Debut, and Best (novel not in the other categories). Annual conventions no longer pick optional award categories.

Over the years, optional awards were given in a variety of categories, such as for the best mystery set in the LCC geographical region (Mountain & Pacific time zones in North America and west to Hawaii), and variously named depending on the convention location: e.g., Otter (Monterey 2004), Calavera (El Paso 2005), Rocky (Denver 2008 & Colorado Springs 2013), and Rose (Portland 2015). Other varieties of geographically-based award include the Hillerman Sky for Southwest settings (Santa Fe 2011), Golden Nugget for California (Sacramento 2012), and the Squid (US) and Calamari (non-US) (Monterey 2014).

Awards for best first mystery include the Eureka! (Sacramento 2012) and Rosebud (Portland 2015). And let’s not forget the Watson, for the mystery with the best sidekick (Santa Fe 2011 & Colorado Springs 2013), and the Hawaii Five-O (2009) for law enforcement and police procedurals. The Panik award was given in memory of Paul Anik for best LA noir (Los Angeles 2010). Cover art was recognized with the Arty (Denver 2008).

This year’s Lefty nominees are listed below. Be sure to deposit your paper Lefty Ballot in the ballot box near Registration by 1:30 PM on Saturday.

Annual LCC Quilt Raffle

Our thanks to long-time supporter Valery Feldman who has been making and donating themed convention quilts since 1997! Purchase raffle tickets in the Bookroom. Do it now; why wait? Proceeds benefit this year's literacy charity (see below).

---

Acknowledgments

---

Thanks to our generous Rocky Mountain High Jinks sponsors!

- Sara Paretsky sponsored by Sisters in Crime
- Meet the New Authors Breakfast sponsored by Sisters in Crime
- Saturday Hospitality Room (10:00 AM - 1:00 PM) sponsored by Rocky Mountain MWA
- Saturday Hospitality Room (2:00-3:00 PM) sponsored by Sibylline Press

Our heartfelt thanks for Book Bag donations:

- Publishers: Brash Books, Level Best Books, Pegasus Books, Soho Crime, Source Books
- Authors: Mark Bacon, Debra Bokur, Jenny Dandy, Anne Da Vigo, Ana Manwaring, Ann Parker, Neil Placky, Connie Shelton, Joanna Campbell Slan, Darcie Wilde

We especially appreciate all the volunteers who are moving boxes of books, stuffing book bags, helping at Registration, serving as Panel Room Monitors, working on the Silent Auction, helping in the Hospitality Room, and everywhere else!

The Rocky Mountain High Jinks Charity

Each Left Coast Crime Convention raises money to support a local literacy organization with funds raised through silent and live auctions. The 2025 recipient is Brink Literacy Project.

Brink Literacy Project is devoted to utilizing the power of storytelling to positively affect the lives of people on the brink. Through our education, community, and publishing divisions, our nonprofit works worldwide to foster a love of literature, increase literacy rates, and use storytelling to empower underserved communities.

Our Education division delivers innovative literacy and storytelling programs with a focus on increasing literacy rates and assisting personal development through storytelling. We have a strong focus on bringing our initiatives to low-income, low-literacy, and marginalized communities, whether that means teaching in prisons or creating completely original curricula to tackle low reading proficiency in our youth.

Through our Community division, Brink forges partnerships with universities and other humanitarian and literary organizations. As a global community of readers, writers, artists, students, and supporters, Brink brings people from diverse backgrounds together to celebrate the beauty and power of storytelling.

Contacts: www.brinklitter.org & www.facebook.com/BrinkLit

Silent Auction Co-Chairs Lori Roberts Herbst and Sandra Murphy will be accepting donations for the Silent Auction and preparing them for display on Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday.

Memories – As we all know, the loss of book stores and independent sellers has accelerated in recent decades. Both Bouchercon and Left Coast Crime were largely the creation of specialty book stores and collectors who also sold and traded in the pre-Internet world. Some are among the booksellers at the first Colorado Left Coast Crime, in Boulder, March 1-3, 1996. Five booksellers were at LCC 2008 in Denver, and three at LCC 2013 in Colorado Springs. Rue Morgue was at all of them, as you might expect.

The Booksellers

The following dealers will have books and other items for sale in the North Ballroom. They are not to be confused with bears or other wildlife. You may feed them. Often.
